FOREWORD

OUR constant aim and watch-word has been "a better and greater Razorback." Whether we have attained that desire is, of course, for you, the student body and alumni, to decide. If our efforts have resulted in giving you a comprehensive catalogue of the life and events of the college year—an interesting panorama of your "younger" days—a visualized keep-sake of your friends, social, political, and otherwise, we have accomplished at least part of our aim. If at some future date—say twenty years from now—you can go into your library, wipe the dust from the covers that surrounds these thoughts, sprawl upon the floor and thoroughly enjoy an evening showing George Junior what a good looking beau or girl you had "while in college"—or all the honors that were involuntarily thrust upon you—if this is the enjoyment that is in wait for you—we will be more than pleased with our efforts.

To say "our" efforts alone would be as boastful as indeed untrue. Without the help and support of the student body our efforts would have gone for naught—the Business Manager could not have cleared a fortune—nor could the Editor have lost one. We are indeed grateful for your hearty co-operation. We are especially indebted to the following whose timely suggestions, invaluable criticisms and untiring efforts have lightened our burdens, prolonged our naps, and aided materially in editing the 1917 RAZORBACK.

Growth of the University of Arkansas

THE University of Arkansas was opened in 1872. It enrolled the first year 16 collegiate students. Although founded as an agricultural and mechanical college, and called for many years the Arkansas Industrial University, almost the entire curriculum was composed of courses in literary and scientific subjects. Very little work in agriculture or engineering was offered.

In the twenty years from 1872 to 1892, the attendance of college students had grown from 16 to 168, and the number of members of the faculty had also increased to a considerable extent. In 1892, the University was still administered as one division which comprised the work of all departments. The collegiate faculty, which consisted of all professors and associate professors in the University, numbered less than twenty. Ten years later, the student enrollment had grown to 234 in the collegiate department. In 1907 it was 530, and in 1912 there were 712 college students. During the twenty years from 1892 to 1912, the requirements for entrance to the freshman class remained almost stationary. At the beginning of that period, the requirements were about two years of high school work, and in 1912 the University was still taking boys and girls from the grammar school, giving them two years of high school work in its preparatory department and putting them into the freshman class. Since 1912, the preparatory department has been dropped and the requirements for entrance to the freshman class have been raised to the standard 14 units or four year high school course. In spite of the great increase in entrance requirements, the attendance of students had in 1915-16 reached 812, of whom 724 were of college grade, according to the increased standard of entrance.

The growth of the institution has within the last ten years been such as to make necessary a division of the University into colleges, and we now have four such divisions; namely, Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Engineering, Agriculture, and Education, each presided over by a dean, who is the administrative officer for his college. The membership of the combined faculties is about 75.

In spite of financial disabilities of the state, the University has grown also in material resources and equipment. It now has twenty brick and stone buildings with reasonably good equipment for all departments and with an adequate corps of well trained, competent specialists in its teaching force.

The legislature of 1917 has treated the University very generously. It passed appropriation bills for the University carrying total amounts greater by $141,000 than any previous legislature. It also passed an act levying a special tax of four-ninths of one mill for the support of the University, and when this tax becomes available, it will bring in on the present valuation of the state about $200,000 a year. In the last four years, the University has greatly increased its activities in the way of extension work. It is now carrying on extension work in agriculture and home economics in all the counties of the state and is coming in direct contact with the people of the state at many points.

With regard to student attendance it may be said that the University of Arkansas enrolled students this year from seventy of the seventy-five counties in the state; that, considering only the subjects and departments located at Fayetteville, it has more students than any other college or university in the southern states except two; that, in the last nine years, its enrollment of students of standard college grade has increased more than 200 per cent.

No further back than five years, graduates of the University of Arkansas who desired to enter the great post graduate schools of the United States were required to do one or two years of extra work in order to obtain an advanced degree. At the present time, a graduate of the University of Arkansas who entered with 14 or more standard high school units, is admitted to the greatest post graduate schools of the country on the same basis as the graduates of the leading universities of the United States.

PRESIDENT JOHN C. FUTRALL

"Arkansas has often been spoken of as a state of great natural resources, but the most valuable asset this state or any other state possesses is its young men and women. The chief function of a University is to develop these young men and women, or rather to assist them in working out their own development, to the end that they may be of service to their state and to humanity."

CAMPUS

Alma Mater

Pure as the dawn on the brow of thy beauty
Watches thy soul from the mountain of God
Over the fates of thy children departed,
Far from the land where their foot-steps have trod.
Beacon of hope in the ways dreary lighted,
Pride of our hearts that are loyal and true;
From those who adore unto one who adores us—
Mother of mothers, we sing unto you.

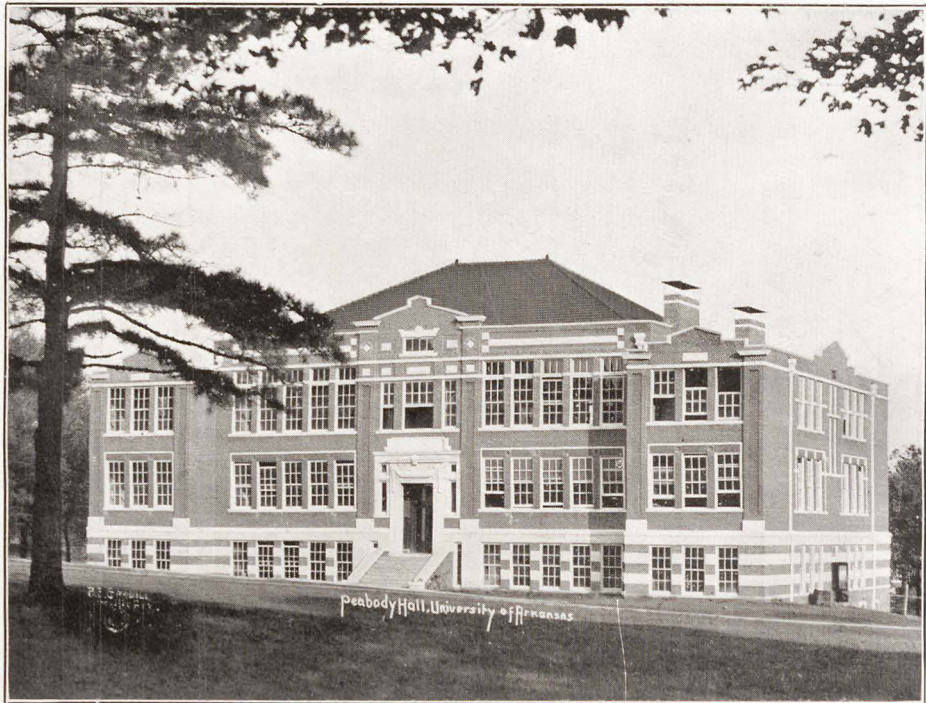

We with our faces turned high to the eastward,
Proud of our place in the vanguard of truth,
Will sing unto thee a new song of thanksgiving—
Honor to God and the springtime of youth.
Shout for the victor or tear for the vanquished;
Sunshine or tempest, thy heart is e'er true;
Pride of the hills and the white laden lowlands—
Mother of mothers, we kneel unto you.

Ever the legion of sin will assail us;
Ever the battles in cities afar;
Still in the depths will thy spirit eternal
Beacon us on like a piloting star.
Down the dim years do thy dead children call thee,
Wafted to sleep while the springtime was new;
We of the present, thy hope of the future—
Mother of mothers, we pray unto you.

AWAY

I can not say and I will not say
That she is dead—she is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be since she lingers there.
And you—O you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return,
Think of her faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here.

Mild and gentle as she was brave—
When the sweetest love of her life she gave
To simple things; where the violets grew
Blue as the eyes they were likened to,
The touches of her hands have strayed
As reverently as her lips have prayed;
When the little brown thrush that harshly chirred
Was as dear to her as the mocking bird;
And she pitied as much as a man in pain
A writhing honey-bee wet with rain.
Think of her still as the same, I say;
She is not dead—she is just away.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

History of the Senior Class

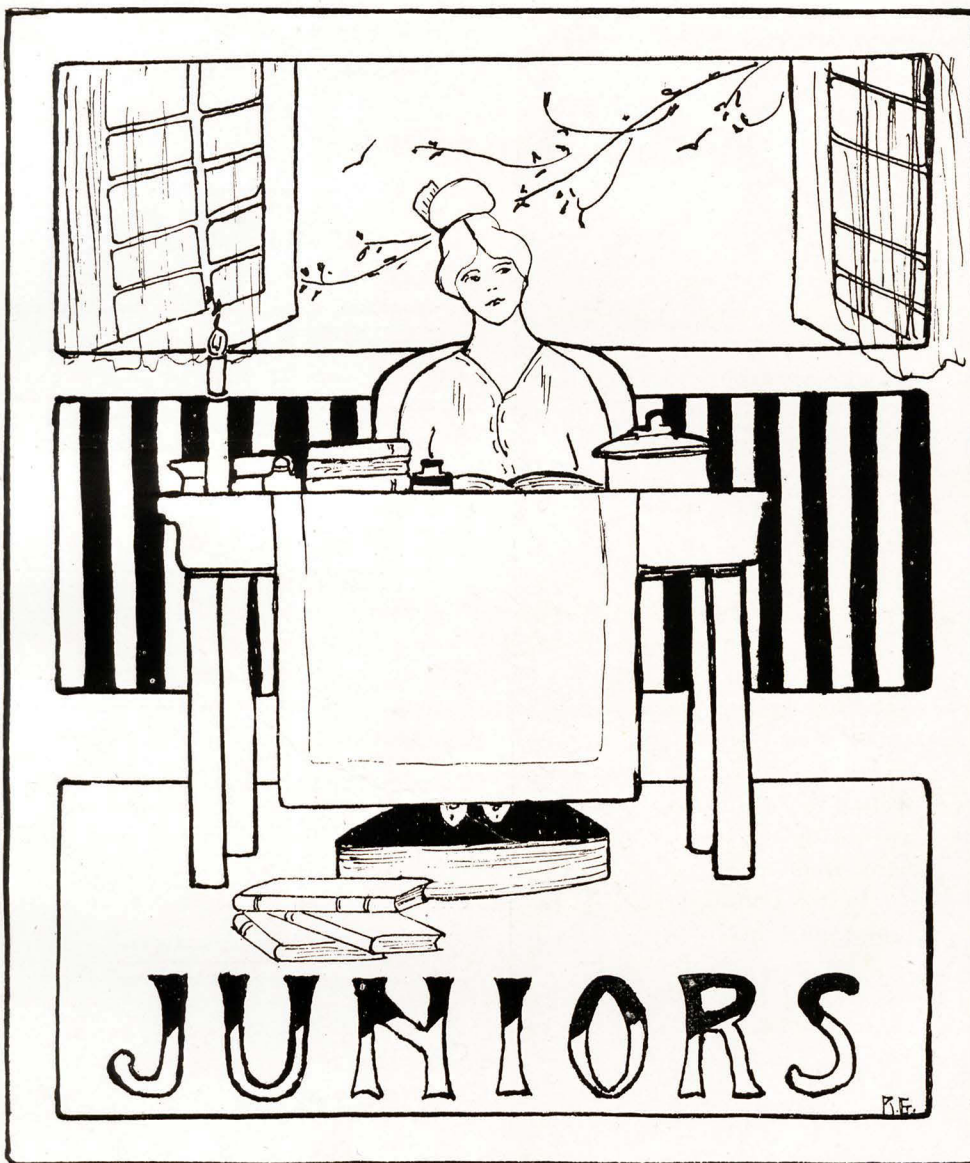

"HISTORY," says Carlisle, "is the history of its great men." "History," says another, "is a record of great deeds." Which ever definition we accept it can safely be said that the class of Seventeen has had history. For as we pour forth our suit to the muse, she like some Homeric bard responds with the memories of the great things that the class has accomplished, things which even the members of the class, if properly approached, will modestly admit.

In the fall of thirteen these future heroes of the gridiron and diamond, these incoming statesmen, politicians, crooks, and what not, of the University, would hardly have been recognized as such. Some might have seen the potentialities lying beneath the surface of these illustrious ones of the Future, but to most of the sophomores and upper class men they simply looked like another crop of freshmen, the greenest that had heretofore had the presumption of contaminating our sacred campus. In this first year Jerry Wallace was elected helmsman of the ship of state. Few months had passed before it was demonstrated that many were the sons of the class of Seventeen that were willing to shed their life blood in defense of her honor and dignity, and when assailed by the invader many was the limp form of a seventeener that was borne from the field of battle, the hero of his classmates.

In its sophomore year the class, led by "Jim" Trimble, passed a quiet and prosperous year.

During its third year the seniors, after having been granted a postponement of the class game until their lucky day, were defeated by a score of 10 to 0. It was this year that the name of the Cardinal was changed to its rightful one of the Razorback. J. E. Stevenson was our president this year.

In its senior year the class, although not the original three hundred, yet led by the little old Ford, a good remnant may be seen completing the final lap of their great race. They have endeavored to make permanent the adoption of the cane and derby by the senior class and if the signs may be discerned aright they will have enriched and strengthened the customs and traditions of our alma mater, and go out to contribute their part toward the knowledge, traditions, and culture of the world.—J. B. B.

HAY, W. C.

Clifton's long suit is watches and work.

HEATH, I. J.

'Tis said that he never finished talking.

HEMPHILL, MARY

Too young to love?
Oh say not so!
Too young? Too young?
Oh no! No! No!

HIGGS, J. W.

"He is in the matron's office."

HOLLABAUGH, GLADYS

"To see her is to love her,
And love but her forever,
For Nature made her what she is,
And never made another."

HON, MILDRED

"Cloudy the day or stormy the night,
The sky of her heart is always bright."

HOWELL, RUTH

"A maiden never bold; of a spirit so still and quiet that her notion blushed at herself."

ILLING, LEO M.

His steel stock has not materialized and he is waiting still for his ship to come home.

IRBY, GUY

"What did Br'er Irby say to little Miss Wolf?"

JACOBSON, WALDO

"Don't touch the bristling pompadour!"
"Jake" is very "touchous" about his hair and claims that he has a right to be as it shows the result of many hours of brushing.

JOHNSON, SCOTT

Scott is king of the jokes.

LANIER, JOHN T.

"She was so charitable and so piteous
She would weep, if she thot she saw a mouse."

MCCARTNEY, NORMAN

What little time Mike isn't on East street
he's going in that direction.

MCDONALD, DOROTHY

There is not a more capable girl in school.
Dorothy is always ready to do her very best,
and her best is far above the ordinary.

McILROY, MERTYE

"Happy am I; from care I'm free!
Why aren't they all contented like me?"

MASSEY, JOE B.

Never cuts a date.

MEADOWS, COY T. ,

"Sot" is there in a pinch.

MIDDLEBROOKS, PEARL

Souls have complexions too;
What will suit one will not suit another.

MILBURN, BRYAN

If Bryan were not our editor we would be tempted to roast him for being a politician.

MILBURN, JOHN B.

"J. B." would perhaps be a star at book selling in Rogers.

MITCHELL, WM. MOORE

"Billie" is fond of Ec., but likes Mary better.

MOODY, J. C.

Says that he would like to be akin to John Smith.

MOORE, VERDA

There is nothing ill can dwell in such a temple. If the ill spirit have so fair a house, good things will strive to dwell with it.

MORGAN, R. E.

He cannot let his studies interfere with his college education.

MULLINS, W. E.

"Isn't it awful," he said and sighed, "How much space I have occupied?"

NELSON, IRENE

"Oh! That this too, to solid flesh would melt,"
Irene is entirely too thin (?) now.

NELSON, W. E.

A man made weary by the world.

SEARCEY, R. L. ("Bobby")

"In youth is the time to train the mind."

SIBLEY, VELMA

Marriage for a great woman is a fall from dignity and ideals amounting to a de-position.

SHACKLEFORD, J. M. ("Shack")

Wins honors both on the field and in the class room.

SHUMAKER, C. A. ("Billy")

Little but all there— Lover of the light fantastic.

SIMMONS, UNA

If love alas be pain, the pain I bear
No tho't can figure and no tongue compare.

SIMPSON, VERDELLE

"Miss Peck said So."

SKAGGS, LESTER

"Neat, not gaudy." A student of the substantial sort.

SMITH, ISABELLA

I like not only to be loved,
But to be told I am loved.

SMITH, L. P. ("Bags")

Ruddy, rough and ready. Takes care of himself.

SMITH, VELMA

Her stature tall. I hate a dumpy woman.

SPARKS, JOHN

Was ruled ineligible but he couldn't resist the temptation so he bossed the Freshman team.

STEWART, OLIVE

A genial disposition wins its owner many friends.

STYRON, MARY

Jimmie is the "Bane" of my life.

SUGGS, A. R.

Too dignified? Not so. A man of experience.

TAYLOR, BELOIT

Beloit did his part in the Sophomore-Freshman game. Wears a beautiful pompadour.

TAYLOR, BESS

She never told her love,
But let concealment like a worm in the bud
Feed on her damask cheek.

TOWNSEND, H. W.

"On the top of that bald eminence, no capillary substance could vegetate." A keen whistler and a German shark.

Electrical Engineering

FOR SEVERAL YEARS, the Electrical Engineering Department has been the largest of the engineering departments. Its men, both in the long and the short courses, have been of uniformly high quality. Its graduates have nearly always been able to secure positions as soon as they finished school. The usual practice is to do one or two years apprentice work with one of the great manufacturing or operating companies in order to gain practical experience. The curriculum of the department embraces various courses from elementary physics and theory of electricity to the advanced theory of alternating currents, transmission lines, laboratory practice, etc., with elective courses in English, modern languages, economics, etc. As much practical work as possible is done. Inspection trips to the great companies in northern states are made whenever possible. Water power surveys are made annually. Many of the students work during the summer in electrical or allied industries. Students under the direction of Professor H. A. Brown have installed a very good wireless station in the engineering hall. Messages have been received from Arlington, Virginia, and other points. The professors and instructors whose work is included in this department are W. N. Gladson, W. B. Stelzner, H. A. Brown, G. E. Ripley (Physics) and Bernard Brown (Physics).

Civil Engineering

PROFESSOR KNOCH is head of the Civil Engineering Department. V. P. Knott is associate professor, and S. N. Whitman is instructor of Civil Engineering.

The department of Civil Engineering offers four-year courses leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Civil Engineering in Highways (B. C. E. in Highways) and Bachelor of Civil Engineering (B. C. E.). The professional degree of Civil Engineer is conferred upon graduates who have been in successful practice of their profession for at least three years. In obtaining a professional degree each candidate must present a statement of his record since graduation accompanied by an acceptable thesis presenting the results of original research. In order to equip students for some special trade within the field of Civil Engineering a two-year trade course is given. At the completion of this course a certificate is granted.

These courses in Civil Engineering include theoretical instruction accompanied by as much engineering practice as is possible. They are designed to give the student a knowledge of fundamental principles that will enable him to enter intelligently into the practice of Civil Engineering.

The studies may be grouped under the heads of hydraulic engineering, sanitary engineering, railroad engineering, bridge engineering, applied mechanics, surveying, road engineering and masonry.

Mechanical Engineering

ALTHOUGH the department of Mechanical Engineering does not have as many students as the department of electrical or civil engineering, the courses offered in the Mechanical Engineering department are of the utmost importance for any branch of engineering. The courses offered include pattern making, foundry and machine shop practice, heat engines, power plant practice and theory, machine design, strength-of-materials testing, and others that are essential for the modern mechanical engineer. The head of the department, Professor F. G. Baender, who has succeeded Professor B. N. Wilson, received his Master's Degree in mechanical engineering at Cornell University in June, 1916. Professor Baender has also had a large amount of practical experience, having been for two years in charge of the erecting of locomotives in the Southern Pacific Railway shops at Oakland, California. Assistant Professor Brainerd Mitchell is a graduate of the University of Arkansas and is recognized as one of the best instructors in the University. Mr. J. H. Clouse, a graduate of the University of Ohio, is the instructor in the machine shop. Mr. J. Dinwiddie is the instructor in the carpenter and pattern shop, and Mr. J. Danner has charge of the foundry.

Engineer's Day

ST. PATRICK, patron saint of the Engineers, made his annual visit to the University of Arkansas March 19th. Classes were dismissed and the Engineers welcomed him in true Irish style. Arrayed in green caps and armed with cob pipes, they met him at the station and turned the keys of the Engineering Hall over to him. The celebration began at 9 a. m. with a parade over the principal business streets of Fayetteville. Gigantic floats representing the different Engineering Departments, artistically decorated automobiles, filled with charming co-eds, followed the sons of Old Erin from Engineers Hall to the city of Fayetteville. St. Patrick, gaily attired in a green frock-tailed coat, headed the procession. Close behind him a submarine ploughed thru the water, furnished by a sprinkling can operated by a loyal son. Hovering in the rear of the procession, an armored automobile, grim and warlike, defied the envious B. A.'s and insured a safe journey.

After parading the principal streets the wearers of the green were guests of the Lyric Theatre. Then returning to the Campus they did homage to their patron saint. St. Patrick mounted the Bridge and urged the Engineers to be loyal to their profession. Speeches by Dean Gladson, J. L. Longino and Professor B. J. Dunn followed.

The ceremonies were concluded by St. Patrick conferring the Degree of Knighthood upon all the members of the Class of 1917. After being dubbed the Knights kissed the Blarney Stone and repaired to the Engineering Hall, where the wonders of engineering were displayed for the enlightenment of the lesser folk.

Weird machines that performed unheard-of tasks awed and inspired the timid B. A.'s and Agris and sent them scampering back to the safety of their departments. The Bachelor of Arts machine, a hot air pump, a crazy motor and other marvels too numerous to mention were among the exhibits.

St. Patrick presided over everything, and when the day closed he departed for Ireland with the good wishes of the entire student body of the University.

History of Engineering in the University of Arkansas

AS early as 1837 some Engineering work was offered in the University and a four-year course was outlined, but no mention was made of a degree until 1878, when the degree of C. E. was offered for the completion of the course.

The real beginning of Engineering work in the University of Arkansas was in 1885-86, when two four year courses were offered, one leading to the degree of B. M. E. and the other to the degree of B. C. E. At the same time a four-year Manual Training or Mechanic Arts course was offered.

In 1891 a four-year course in Electrical Engineering, leading to the degree of B. E. E., was added. All three degree courses were identical through the sophomore year and required seventy-six hours for graduation. It is a notable fact that almost since the beginning of Engineering in the University more hours have been required for graduation than have been required in the A. B. course.

For the past several years Dr. W. N. Gladson has been dean of the College of Engineering. Under his efficient administration the department has prospered and is today reckoned among the best of the engineering colleges in the country. The work of each department in the college has been seriously hampered in the last few years by lack of funds, but in spite of this handicap each department has been able to uphold its high record. This has largely been due to the sacrifices made by the Engineering professors.

The purpose of the courses in the College of Engineering is to prepare young men for the profession of engineering. The value of the training that is acquired in a university course is recognized by railway officials, manufacturers and municipal, state and federal authorities. The demand in industrial and engineering fields throughout the country is for college graduates.

The graduates of the College of Engineering of the University of Arkansas are scattered over the entire world, occupying positions of trust in foreign lands, in the service of the United States government, in large manufactories, and in state and municipal service, or building for themselves reputations as professional engineers.

The College of Agriculture

WHILE the enrollment in the College of Agriculture was only one hundred and fifty, it should be noted that there were two hundred and ninety-eight students of the University who were taking some work in the College. The enrollment in the College of Agriculture has in the last ten years increased far more rapidly than the enrollment in any other division. That the enrollment does not increase even more rapidly still is due to one thing, namely, the lack of high schools in the rural districts offering preparation for the freshman class of a college or university. Such high schools may be expected to increase very much in number in the next ten years, however, and this will undoubtedly cause a large increase in the enrollment of students in the College of Agriculture.

Characteristic of the College of Agriculture is the loyalty, enthusiasm and aggressiveness of the student body. Especially is this spirit manifest in the Agri. Club, an organization to which all students of Agriculture are eligible. Not only does the club strive to be a supplementary educational force, but it has always been ready to advance the interests of the College in any way possible. The club has been characterized by a spirit of loyalty and unity unsurpassed by any other organization in the University. This spirit, added to the willingness to work for big things, is responsible for the club's well-deserved reputation for progressiveness.

On April 18th a local chapter of the National Agricultural Fraternity of Alpha Zeta was installed. It was for the purpose of securing this organization that "The Grange" was organized last June. Membership in the Alpha Zeta is limited to Juniors and Seniors whose scholarship places them in the upper two-fifths of their class, and who give promise of achieving something in their chosen profession.

Corresponding to the inter-collegiate debaters in the College of Arts and Sciences is the stock judging team of the College of Agriculture. For the first time Arkansas this year sent a team to the International Students' Judging Contest at Chicago, there competing with the strongest colleges of the country. Though not finishing among the leaders, the Arkansas team made a fair showing, and next year's team should be able to render a good account of itself.

The day before Thanksgiving was Agri day, and though established only comparatively recently, it is fast becoming a tradition of the University. The Agri dance, on Thanksgiving eve, is an event which is always eagerly looked forward to, both by Agris and their friends, and this year's Agri parade set a new mark in the way of college stunts. Speeches, dinners served by the Home Economics girls, the agricultural exhibitions and stock judging and apple contests filled the remainder of the Agris best day of the year.

From the baker's dozen of a few years ago to almost a hundred and fifty students in 1916-17 is the record of the remarkable progress of the College of Agriculture. And not only has there been progress in the number of students, but the faculty has been strengthened, the course of study revised, buildings enlarged and stock and equipment added. In strength of curriculum and grade of instruction the College of Agriculture is now the equal of any college in the University.

Three branches of specialization are open to the student, Animal Husbandry, Agronomy, and Horticulture, and in each of these branches technical courses, the equivalents of the undergraduate work in the leading schools in the country, are offered. Before going very far in his technical work, however, the student is required to ground himself in the fundamental sciences, chemistry, physics, and biology. Besides the sciences, courses in English, Mathematics, and Economics are prescribed, so that the farmer is given a liberal as well as a technical education.

Department of Home Economics

THE Home Economics Department of the College of Agriculture has now entered upon its fourth year. It has proved a marked success and has had as rapid growth as the accommodations will permit. It now represents a very substantial addition to the University.

Much of the credit for the growth and popularity of the Home Economics Department is due Miss Ruth Peck, Head of the Department. Miss Metzger has also aided materially in placing the Department upon a high plane.

The College of Education

THE College of Education was made an integral part of the University of Arkansas by the Trustees in order that all the forces of the University might be brought together and correlated in a way that would contribute to the preparation of educational leaders in teaching and the supervision of schools. Until three years ago Education had been a department of the College of Arts and Sciences. The University authorities planned first to elevate the department to a School of Education with Junior standing, but such was the need for trained teachers in the state and such its growth during its first two years of existence that it has now been elevated to a separate college with its own requirements for both entrance and graduation.

This year there have been about one hundred and thirty students doing the first year's work of the course, with between sixty and seventy others doing practice teaching, and a few others doing degree work who had completed their teaching in the Training School, so that the enrollment has been practically two hundred. In addition the University Training School includes not only children of all the elementary grades, but also a full high school, composed not only of pupils from the surrounding country districts, but from small towns in Arkansas that do not support a complete four-year course.

The excellence of the work done in training teachers is shown by the fact that no state has denied the application of the College of Education to have its work given recognition, and this applies even to the state of Washington which has the highest requirements for its schools of any state in the union. During the past two years teachers have been placed by the Recommendation Bureau of the College in fourteen different states, eleven of them with higher requirements for teachers than Arkansas has. Last year the State Commissioner of Education in one of the more progressive of the states educationally, wrote asking for a list of the best one-third of the graduates, saying that he would give them places in good schools without seeing them on the personal recommendation of the College authorities.

Already the College of Education has more students doing more hours of class work than has any other such college in the great Southwest, and it ranks high nationally in this way. With a hundred and thirty first year students this year there should be not less than a hundred doing practice teaching next year, which will give it one of the largest practice schools among the American State Universities. The legislature of this winter provided for additions to the number of instructors in the faculty, so that this increase in student body may be taken care of.

Department of Physical Education for Women

THE Department of Physical Education for Women has come to be one of the most popular departments in the University. This stage has not been reached, however, without passing through the vicissitudes of ill fortune. The greatest difficulties against which the department has had to contend were ignorance on the part of the faculty and people in general of the work being accomplished, dislike on the part of the student body, and too small appropriations. These hindrances have been, in part at least, overcome, but it has not been by any happy incident nor by good fortune. It has been brought about by the earnest and consistent effort of Miss Clara Miller, who has been for five years at the head of the department.

In this time the Gymnasium has been moved from the third floor to the basement; dressing rooms have been made and provided with lockers; shower baths have been installed; and an office has been built for the instructor. Two years of gymnasium have been made compulsory for all girls in the University. The result is evident by the general interest manifested by both students and townspeople. The number of girls enrolled in the third and fourth year classes is larger each year.

Crowds of girls are now brought together in regular classwork and things of mutual interest are formed that create a more friendly atmosphere in the University life. Town and dormitory girls become acquainted in the cosmopolitanism of the dressing room.

The work in Physical Education is divided into two parts, out-door and in-door work. The out-door comes in the fall and spring and includes tennis, volleyball, captainball, baseball, basketball, and field hockey. In-door classwork is about equally divided between the Swedish and German systems. The Swedish system is corrective. The German system is work in the form of play—recreation. Indian clubs, dumb bells, wands, and bar bell are used and folk dances are taught.

An exhibition which is given each spring is always acknowledged to be one of the most successful exhibitions of the University. In June, 1916, a pageant, the dramatization of Milton's "L'Allegro," by aesthetic and folk dancing, was given as one of the features of the commencement season. In February, 1917, a pantomime of "Sleeping Beauty" was given under the direction of the department. In May, 1917, the department is planning for a May Day Festival to which everyone is looking forward with great interest.

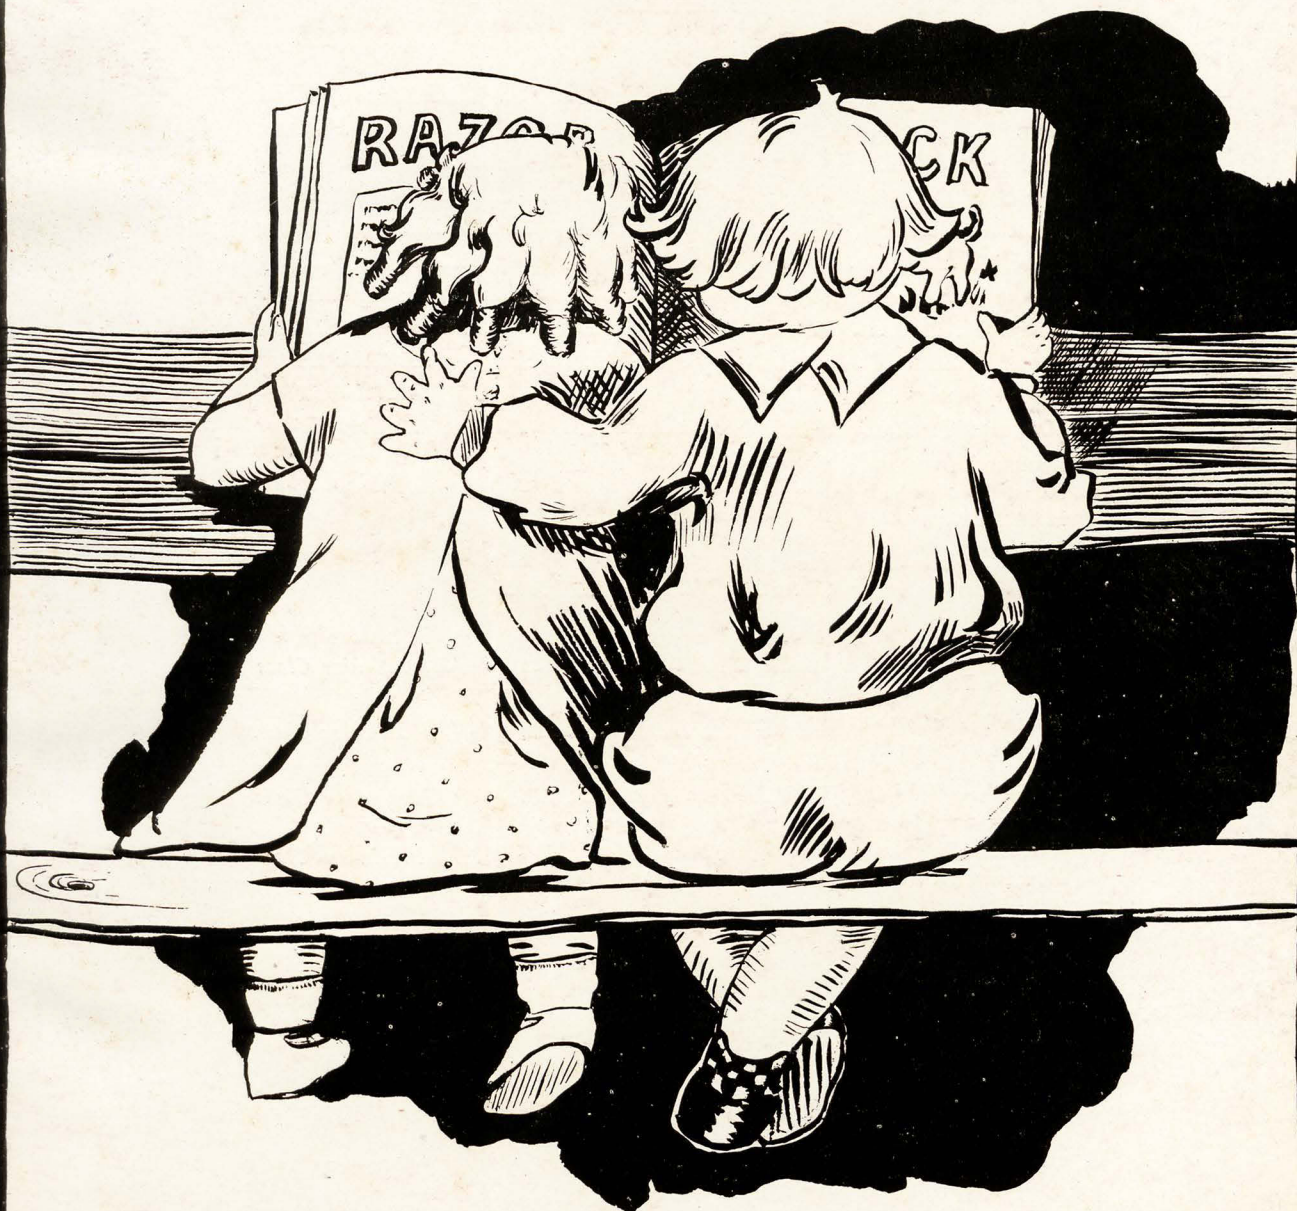

The work in Physical Education is strictly disciplined. In the class work everyone is under the control of the teacher who gives rapid commands and expects them to be rapidly executed. The work begins with the simplest tasks but gradually, under the direction of an expert, order comes from chaos and the grace and dignity of the Senior from the awkwardness of the Freshman.

The University owes a great debt to the ability of the Instructor of this department, a debt of which the girls of the department are conscious and which they try to pay in part by their sincere appreciation.

Inter-Collegiate Debates

THIS year Arkansas entered into a triangular league with Mississippi A. and M. College and Mississippi University. On Friday evening, April 30, Arkansas met Ole Miss on the home forum while another Arkansas team debated the Aggies at Starkville. At the same time the two Mississippi institutions were debating at Oxford.

The question debated was, "Resolved, That the Monroe Doctrine Should Be Abandoned As a Permanent Part of Our Foreign Policy." In each debate the home team supported the affirmative side of the question. The Arkansas affirmative team consisted of Allen Zoll and Brooks Hays, while Bryan Milburn and Jeff Davis composed the negative. Milburn was the only man on the team this year who had represented Arkansas in debate before. The other three men, however, are experienced debaters, Zoll having represented the Garlands twice in the Inter-Society contests and Hays and Davis having been debaters in their high school days.

Allen Zoll of the affirmative team is an all round man. Large and aggressive, he has been one of the mainstays of the football team for three years. At the same time he has taken an active interest in Literary society work and represented the Garlands twice in the Inter-Society debates. He is a very forceful speaker, having a strong, ringing voice and an imposing appearance on the floor.

Brooks Hays is the diminutive colleague of Zoll on the affirmative team. Although not very large physically he is a powerful speaker and his voice has a volume little suspected by those who do not know him. He thinks logically and expresses his thoughts in excellent language. Hays will be even better next year.

Bryan Milburn seems to have been born for an orator. He is completely at ease on the platform and has a full, rich voice which he uses very effectively. He emphasizes important points with appropriate gestures. His appearance on the floor is commanding, due to his size and erectness. He is forceful in presenting his own arguments and ready in refuting his opponents'.

Jeff Davis, Milburn's colleague on the negative side, is a Junior this year. He speaks rapidly and easily and thinks as rapidly as he speaks. He is very keen at perceiving the weak points in an opponent's argument. Although not large, his appearance on the floor is pleasing, his bearing being erect and his delivery graceful.

ALLEN ZOLL

BROOKS HAYS

OTHO HOLLET

Hays, Milburn and Davis are members of the Periclean Literary Society, and Zoll is a member of the Garland.

The alternates were Cleveland Cabler and Otho Hollet. Cabler is a forceful and effective speaker, and Hollett, tho somewhat lacking in force, is a ready thinker.

The contest at Fayetteville with Mississippi University resulted in a 3 to 0 decision for Arkansas. The team sent to Miss. A. and M. met defeat by the same score.

Much credit is due to Prof. Waterman, the debating coach, for his untiring efforts in trying to put out winning teams.

INTER-SOCIETY DEBATES

According to the custom established two years ago the Men's Literary Societies were planning a series of Inter-Society Debates when the Razorback went to press. The contests have proved to be very interesting in the past and promise to be equally as interesting this year. Last year the Garland Society won over both the Pericleans and the Lees. The two latter societies are out seeking revenge this year. The question to be debated is, "Resolved, That a System of Compulsory Military Service Should Be Adopted." The debates are planned along the lines of the Inter-Collegiate debates, each society having both an affirmative and a negative team. The Pericleans are representd this year by J. C. Ragsdale and Virgil Willis, affirmative, and J. E. Bradley and Herbert Faisst, negative; the Garlands by T. A. Mason and F. F. Tyler, affirmative, and Kelley Clardy and Bert Faison, negative; and the Lees by A. R. Sugg and J. B. Landrum, affirmative, and Clyde Vinson and B. B. Turner, negative. The contests will take place in the afternoon and evening of Saturday, April 28.

ORATORY

Last year the Grant Oratorical Contest was instituted in the University to take the place of the Johnson Loving Cup Contest in which the students had lost interest. A beautiful loving cup was donated by Professor J. R. Grant, of the College of Education, to be contested for by the four literary societies. Each year an oratorical contest is held in which one representative from each society is allowed to speak. The society winning has the privilege of engraving its name and the name of its representative on the cup. The society winning the cup three times is allowed to keep it as a trophy. Last year the Sapphic Literary Society, represented by Miss Adaline Lincoln, won.

Review of Football Season

THE season of 1916-1917 marked a new era in University of Arkansas football history with the adoption of the rule that Freshmen are not eligible for the team. As was expected, this worked a great hardship on the team for the first year. The year opened with an extremely hard season ahead of us. Rolla, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma and Mississippi A. & M. were viewed as formidable opponents, and as the season progressed the success of each strengthened this view.

Although there were eleven of last year's letter men in school and out for the team, only ten others who were eligible for the 'Varsity reported. This extremely small squad was a primary cause of the late season defeat of the team, for in case of injury to regulars there were no substitutes to take their places.

At the beginning of the season the Fates were extremely kind and we ran up large scores in the three practice games, defeating Kansas Normal (Pittsburg) 34-20, Hendrix 58-0 and Oklahoma School of Mines 82-0. The next game, with Rolla, was feared on account of the great strength of Rolla in 1914, when last seen here. However, the team rose to the occasion and in a brilliantly played game we defeated her 60-0.

The next game was the annual meet with Louisiana at the Louisiana State Fair. Louisiana had shown great strength in her previous games, and every energy was exerted to get our team into the proper form for this game. After outplaying Louisiana the entire first half, the team weakened for about ten minutes in the third quarter, during which time they scored two touchdowns. Despite the heroic efforts on our part throughout the remainder of the game, it ended with the score 17-7 in their favor.

In spite of this defeat we still had a chance to win the southwestern championship, and everyone did his utmost with this end in view. These hopes were shattered, however, in our defeat by Texas University by the score of 52-0. The team fought gamely to the end, but could not overcome superior speed, vastly greater weight and the advantage of a squad many times larger.

Our next game at Fort Smith against Oklahoma University was witnessed by the entire student body, which greatly aided the team by its enthusiastic support. In spite of a desperate battle on our part we were defeated by the close score of 14 to 13.

Five days later we met Mississippi A. & M. at Memphis and, still exhausted from the strenuous Oklahoma game, with both guards and one end crippled and with Captain Reichart out of the game, we fell prey to Mississippi, which resulted in a defeat of 20 to 7.

As a whole the season was disappointing for we started out with such success and then lost the last four games. However, this was not entirely unexpected owing to the smallness of our squad, the ineligibility of Freshmen and the great strength of the teams that we met. In every game the team fought gamely thruout, but a weakening for a few minutes in the crucial point of the game brought about at least two of the defeats. The team possessed no individual stars, with the exception of Davidson, and what success we did have was due to our team work. Coach McConnell deserves much credit for his excellent work in arousing the proper fighting spirit and bringing about good team work in the players. His plays in variety and brilliance were vastly superior to those of any other team we encountered and frequently netted substantial gains against far better teams. Altho the season was not a success, it was not an ignominious disgrace, and we have the satisfaction of knowing that all conference rules were conscientiously observed, and that the team was maintained absolutely on the principles belonging to clean sport.

WILSON, Left End—"Bill"

Bill gets better every year and was good in the beginning. He is very large for an end and uses his size to the best advantage. A reliable player.

HALE, Left Tackle—"Bus"

Our big bear "Bus"—was even better this year than last and that is lots to say. One of our pair of excellent tackles who were the dread of opponents. His enormous strength stopped many a line plunge before it got to the line of scrimmage.

CAMPBELL, Left Guard—"Cholly"

A tremendous power in the center of the line. He made a name for himself as left end in the Texas game, when though knocked out, he played a wonderful game. At all times he could be counted on to do more than his part.

COLEMAN, Center—"Colie"

The center who admirably filled the place of Reichart when the scholarship committee ruled the latter ineligible. "Colie" was a reliable center, especially strong on defense and always full of pep.

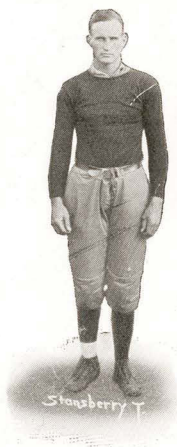

ZOLL, Right Guard—"Aaron"

Did his very best. The hardest fighter on the team—and never lacked pep. He was in every play—both offense and defense.

SMITH, Right Tackle—"Bags"

The other of our pair of extraordinary tackles. Bags though a first year man, seemed made to order for the game. It is inevitable that in another year he will be elevated to the front rank of Arkansas' greatest tackles. A hard fighter and in every play.

STANSBERRY, Right End—"Bricks"

Our only third year man. "Bricks" is considered the best end Arkansas has had in years. His hobby is dumping the entire interference and throwing the runner for a big loss—a thing which he did time after time in nearly every game.

DAVIDSON, Quarterback—"Sody"

A splendid broken field runner, an excellent line plunger, a good field general, an accurate forward passer, a punter far above the average, a "peppy" leader—it's no wonder he was selected as all Southwestern Quarterback and the Razorback's 1917 Captain.

COCHRAN, Fullback—"Mawruss"

The peppiest player on the team, always foremost in instilling energy and enthusiasm in his teammates. Maurice was always to be relied on in the advancing of the ball, and was also a stonewall on defense.

HARDIN, Half Back—"Temp"

Though very small, Temp took his place with any halfback we met. Completely full of grit, he was an excellent broken field runner and the most elusive dodger on the team. He was a daring and successful tackler, and despite his size a sure line plunger.

STEVENSON, Half Back—"Steve"

Another first year man who showed true Varsity form in his service in the backfield. Steve was fast and a good line plunger.

BAIN, Half Back—"Jimmie"

The fastest and the smallest man on the team. A good punter and unexcelled on end runs. Largely responsible for the large defeat we gave Rolla. Jimmie is hard to catch, once he gets loose.

GORDON, Fullback—"Minor"

A hard tackler and a power in the backfield. His strength and knowledge of the game were valuable assets. A good all round player, who gives promise of a great future.

MCGILL, Lineman—"Mac"

A consistently good player and an unusually hard fighter. Mac, too, is going to make a name for himself on the gridiron.

SHACKLEFORD, Halfback—"Shack"

Shack didn't get a chance at the first of the season, but finished up strong. Fought like a veteran in the Oklahoma game, and will doubtless be prominent on the 1917 team.

REICHART, Center—"Criss"

Reichart, our captain, is a center of recognized ability. He played six of the games in his usual style. The best center Arkansas has had for a number of years.

THE 1916 SQUAD

Freshman Team

The Freshman football team was unusually strong this year, as the conference barred them from the Varsity team. They never failed to give the regulars a hard fight and several times they were able to put the ball over the Varsity's goal for a touchdown.

John Sparks proved to be an able coach and by his persistent efforts developed the Freshman team into a fast one.

The Freshmen played two games away from home; one at Fort Smith with Fort Smith High School, and the second at Tahlequah, Okla., with the Northeastern Normals. Both games were won by a large score.

The season was a grand success for the Freshmen and the Varsity squad has an eye on several of the Freshmen for next year's lineup.

THE 1916-17 TEAM

TOURNAMENT

The second annual wrestling tournament aroused much enthusiasm among both contestants and witnesses. About twenty-five tried out for the team, but all except twelve were eliminated in the preliminaries. In the one hundred and fifteen pound class Imon won a decision over C. Smith. In the one hundred and twenty-five pound class, Webster Jones and Gordon Perdue wrestled three bouts to a draw, but Perdue, sportsmanlike, gave the cup to Jones as the latter was a Senior. John Lanier and Clyde Dorr wrestled fifty-five minutes to a draw in the one hundred and thirty-five pound class, but as Lanier made the one hundred and twenty-five class a few days later, both were given places on the team. Donald Rice won an easy fall from Pyeatte in the one hundred and forty-five pound class. In the one hundred and fifty-eight pound class Alan Rice won from Hansard in an easy fall. Allen Zoll and Harvey Hale wrestled an exhibition bout, neither securing a decision.

MEET WITH OKLAHOMA A. & M.

The first wrestling team of the University of Arkansas was very successful considering its lack of experience. All the credit for whatever success the team had is due Coach McConnell, who is an expert wrestler and the champion of Perdue University. In the meet with Oklahoma A. & M. the result was a draw 12½-12½, although the referee's decision gave the meet to Arkansas by the score 15-10. In the one hundred and twenty-five pound class, Lanier lost to Smith of Oklahoma A. & M. Dorr won from Richmond of Oklahoma in the one hundred and thirty-five pound class. In the one hundred forty-five pound class, Rice lost to Gallagher of Oklahoma. Zoll won from Rhinehart of Oklahoma in the one hundred sixty-five pound class. In the heavyweight division Hale secured the decision of the referee over Chase, but the match was allowed to be called a draw, thus, tying the score.

THE 1917 BASEBALL SQUAD

Review of Baseball Season, 1916

THE baseball team of 1915-16 was the first team to represent Arkansas in the new Southwest Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and as such showed up very well. The strict enforcement of the conference rules prevented several of our best men from participating, but the season was successful as it was. Assistant Coach Ellison succeeded in developing a fast infield from the green material at hand. The outfield also turned into a fast fielding, hard hitting trio before the season was over. Although there was only one veteran on the pitching staff, with the aid of Captain Payne two new pitchers were developed who won a large percentage of their games. While there were no marvelous batters on the squad, Payne, Palmer, Love, Smith and Tanner manipulated the stick to excellent advantage and batted far above the average. Taken all in all the season, though by no means a complete victory, was a success, for we won ten games out of the fifteen played. The prospects for a winning team this year are excellent.

ELLISON, BERT, Assistant Coach

"Crook" kept the Team in shape. He is now making good in fast company.

PAYNE, Catcher, CAPTAIN—"Buck"

Played a good reliable game thruout the season, especially good in pinches. Led the squad to victory. Is said to have disputed one man's word on the trip.

PALMER, First Base—"Humpy"

Found his natural position when shifted to first, a place which he filled with great credit to himself and great success to the team. An all round good player whose specialty was rattling opposing pitchers. Next year's captain.

SMITH, Second Base—"Jack"

As always, Smith was reliable at his old position. He could swing onto "Buck's" hot pegs as could no smaller man. Played excellent ball without the least exertion.

MCLACHLAN, Shortstop—"Mack"

The snappy little shortstop who ably covered his allotted field. In one game he got six hits, three being home runs.

MCCARTNEY, Third Base—"Mike"

Played hard and well, tho at times ill luck befell him. Maybe it's because third base is near the bleachers.

TANNER, Left Field—"Joe"

Played good ball thruout the season. His third year on the team found him up to his usual form. Selected left field so that he could better view the grandstand.

MASSEY, Center Field—"Beal"

The lead-off man, a consistently good player, tho a cut ankle somewhat slowed his speed. Another grandstand watcher.

LOVE, Right Field—"Lovey"

The third of our fast batting trio of outfielders. Also one of our surest and heaviest sluggers, and could be relied on in a pinch to slam a good one.

BENTON, Pitcher—"Percy"

The veteran pitcher of the squad. Had pretty good luck in his games, at any rate he won his share of them. His favorite expression was, "I've got 'em breaking today, I ought to have worked."

RAWLINGS, Pitcher—"Prof."

Prof's first year of Varsity ball. Showed up well, winning a large percentage of his games. Especially good in a pinch and could play anywhere. Is said to have struck out fifteen Okla. Miners with a sore arm.

HINTON, Pitcher—"Skeet"

A better grouch than ballplayer, yet a pitcher above the average. Skeet, though a freshman, showed "stuff" and will doubtless do well next year.

Sapphic Literary Society

THE Sapphic Literary Society has this year exceeded the limit of the membership heretofore attained, having an enrollment of fifty members. As a member of the A. F. W. C. the Sapphic Society sent two delegates to the annual federation which met at Pine Bluff.

For the first time the Society is entering into an Inter-collegiate debating contest held this year with the Llypathia Society of Hendrix college. The Society intends to make the inter-collegiate debate an annual affair.

By offering prizes for the best songs and yells for the University the Sapphics are arousing more loyalty among the students to their Alma Mater.

The members have shown more enthusiasm and more ability in every line of work, responding more readily when called upon, showing themselves more capable of filling responsible positions and of conducting the whole Society in a more efficient manner than in any previous year.

Periclean Literary Society

THE nucleus from which the Periclean Literary Society sprang was a band of four men who in 1900 began to meet as a debating club. In March, 1901, it received recognition from the faculty and was organized as the Periclean Literary Society. It has steadily grown and now is one of the largest and most influential societies in the University. It has always given its share of men to represent the University in Inter-collegiate debates and oratorical contests. This year has been unusually favorable to the Pericleans; great interest has prevailed the entire year and four Pericleans made places on the debating team.

Garland Literary Society

ORGANIZED IN 1886; OLDEST SOCIETY IN UNIVERSITY—SEVERAL FACULTY
INSTRUCTORS WERE FORMER MEMBERS

THE Garland Literary Society was named in honor of one of Arkansas' most famous statesmen, "Augustus H. Garland." It has flourished throughout its entire history. From a number of societies which were at one time in existence, the Garland is one of the four that has survived to the present day. A large number of the most prominent doctors, lawyers, bankers, business men and in fact men in every other profession, who received their training in Arkansas were members of the Garland. The society can truthfully boast of the fact that it has furnished its share of the men most prominent on the forum for Arkansas both at home and abroad. Besides this, there are a number of men in the faculty who at one time were members of the Garland literary society.

Lee Literary Society

Motto....."To be rather than to seem"
Colors.....Lavender and Gold
Flowers.....Red and White Roses

THE Lee Literary Society, the youngest Society in the University, was organized in November, 1906, by five members of the Periclean Literary Society, who permanently withdrew from that Society for the purpose of organizing and maintaining the Lee. On account of the congested conditions of the existing societies at that time, the founders of the Lee recognized the necessity of better facilities for literary training. The Lee Literary Society has always been creditably represented in the debates and inter-society contests, and it is composed of some of the strongest and most wide awake young men of the University. Each member who is in good standing is on program twice a month.

The German Club

THE German Club was organized six years ago. The purpose of the organization is to give additional opportunity for conversation and to cultivate a deeper interest in the German language, literature and civilization. At the meetings, which are held fortnightly, the folk-song occupies a prominent place on the programs. Recitations and declamations in the foreign language by members of the club are a source of interest and benefit. Moreover, lectures by members of the faculty from the German department or by German speaking friends in the neighborhood are especially popular and inspiring. Conversation is facilitated by dividing the entire membership into groups with a teacher or an advanced student in charge of each group. Topics for conversation are chosen by the program committee. From time to time a German play is given, which always attracts a good crowd and arouses much interest. "Einer Muss Heiraten" was the last play selected and as characters Herbert Faisst, Otho Hollet, Marjorie Gold, and Lela Sailor acquitted themselves with credit.

Students who have one semester of German are eligible to membership in the Club. There are about seventy-five members with an average attendance of about fifty. This year has been the most successful in the history of the organization.

THE Skull and Torch Honor Society is the result of the coalition, on February 15, 1915, of the two old honor societies, the Skull and Torch, existing in the University at that time. The purpose of Skull and Torch is to recognize the efficiency in scholarship of those who have evidenced high moral character and influence in their university life.

Only students who are candidates for degrees in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Education are eligible. While the Society is primarily for Seniors, enough Juniors are elected each year to perpetuate the organization. Election of members occurs once each year.

The Student Council consists of fourteen members, ten of whom are Seniors, two Juniors and two Sophomores. This body strives to mould student opinion to the end that all undesirable customs and practices may be eliminated from the University, and that new ones conducive to higher ideals of conduct may be introduced.

The Student Council accomplishes its purpose by initiating petitions to the University Senate, and by appealing to the students through mass meetings.

This year the Council has been instrumental in securing a formal Class Day, a point system for restricting the number of offices to be held by any one student, and an Easter vacation of four days.

LET THE TRUTH BE KNOWN

That these "Undesirables" have disgraced their parents and brought shame to our Alma Mater.

Freshman Shinn—for telling us he was an orator.

Bob Morgan—for having luxuriant alfalfa only too often.

Percy Myers—for publishing cigarette adds in the Weekly.

Charley Taylor—for telling us he was educated.

Allen Zoll—for letting Prof. Drake call him "Mr. Zole."

Cleveland Cabler—for starting too many petitions.

Bryan Milburn—for editing the Razorback.

Mildred Hornibrook—for sprawling out in front of the University.

Frances Yates—for following her example.

Elizabeth Crockett—for trying to be too popular.

Mary Kernodle—for suppressing any "Moore" competition.

Scott Hamilton—for telling Prof. Drake that no large trees grew on the Pacific coast, only "shrubberty."

Adele Ramsey—too backward, quiet and unassuming.

Sodie Davidson—for refusing to join "Skull and Torch."

Stubby Lawson—for not knowing anybody.

John Casey—whose young life is budding too soon.

Brooks Hays—for being too doggone serious.

Freshman Moody—for refusing a bid from the Sphinx.

Kelley Clardy—for appealing to the Debating Judges' "sense of fair play."

Martha Campbell—for striking matches on the "East porch."

Margaret Wilson—for refusing to leave the campus a few weeks before Christmas.

Woodrow Wilson—for being so bashful vocally.

Olive Stewart—for making love to Prof. Murphy. Yes, sir, she called him KID.

Boyd Best—for blushing when asked about the Sphinx.

Nina Cotton—for being the girl that Jim Amis said, "called him sweet papa."

COLLEGE RHYMES

There's a fellow named Cherry
But sense he has "narry"

For he accepted a place—
That left him anti-monetary
And now he says he can't marry.

But the editor is worse off than he,
Wounds he has six,
Sympathy he has nix,
And no one is more fearful than he.

The rest of the blame,
Tho' it's only in name

Falls on the editor's staff,
But they've lost no kale,
And are hearty and hale,
And, of course, sit back and laugh.

But what ever the case,
If your hearts are not lace,
You can rest assured
It's the best we could afford.
You know we've worked,
In fact, never shirked;
You have only to look at our face.

Let me tell you a tale
That came to us by mail.

It was about some sororities
That were nice and wonderous wise,
But a freshman came up
And none would give up
And they scratched each other's eyes.

Miss Mary was hot
But it bothered them not.
Some would pass the others by
But look to left nor right,
Except to fuss, tear and cry,
And then how those girls did fight.

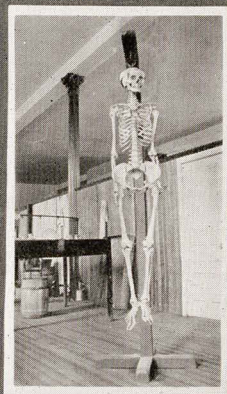

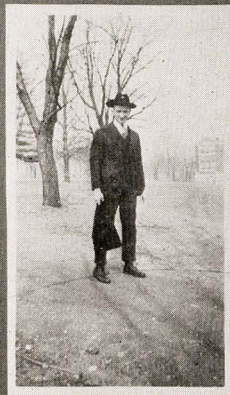

Humpty-Dumpty sat on a wall,
Humpty-Dumpty had a great fall,
But Frances and Mildred, when they begin,
Can fall worse than Humpty and all the King's men.
They started up the entrance to U. of A. hall,
They paused, they tripped, then shoes and all,
They tumbled ker-plunk before all the men
And now they won't ever be seen there again.

There was a professor named Pickell—
Now, please don't tell,
And I will relate
The doings sedate
Of this professor named Pickell.

He read at the top of the step,
A poster which said "Get the Pep."
His eyes were so dim,
And his knowledge so slim,
That he acted very much like a prep.

He went to his old friend Webster
To find the meaning of Pep, sir;
The best that he found
To approach the sound
Was spelled with an "i" 'stead of "e," sir.

So he put his mind then at ease,
And went to a friend, saying, "Please,
Why do they, my dear,
Tell the students out here
To obtain a chicken's disease?"

EXCERPTS FROM ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS ON MILITARY EXAMINATION

A military map is a description of a certain portion of the earth's surface, showing and giving a description of everything.

The object of a snake bite is to keep the poison out of the blood—The poison attacks the blood and heart after the bite.—H. F. Little.

(Speaking of snake bites). Suck the poison out if there is no cracks in the lips or teeth. You can also cut the wound out or seal it with a hot iron or give enough whisky to counteract the shock.—E. N. Gatewood.

If a snake bites a person a band should be tied tight around the limb between the bite and the heart. Then if there is no ulcers or false teeth in your mouth you should suck the poison out.—Fincher.

Treatment of burns.—The first thing to do is to lay down and role yourself over and over and never run. After a short time remove his clothes and put lindseed oil on them.—Clyde Kitchens.

The faculty of the University of Texas has recently made new and stringent rules as to when the university dances should stop. Instead of the regular dances having to end at 4:30 a. m., they must now close at 2:30 a. m. An exception to this rule is at commencement, when dances must stop at 4:30 a. m., instead of 6 a. m., as previously.

Mr. Ford: "This is alright."

Dr. Pickel: "This afternoon I'm going down and get a great big step ladder and get that little ole shade."

Four rules in the Military Dept.:

1. Forget not to say "Sir" when thou answerest a question, that thou bringeth not down wrath upon thy head.
2. Wrong not thy brother by placing thy gun in his rack.
3. Turn not thy head or make any unnecessary move on dress parade for it will ruin the whole line.
4. Forget that thou lovest sleep on Saturday morning that thou may be allowed to remain in school.

Taken from 1913-14 Annual, but it is still good:

"He is a man of unbounded stomach—Woodrow Wilson."

Mr. Tovey to Glee Club: "Lets have liquid movement in this piece."

Sis Ramsey: "What part of the body is the scrimmage?"

Romey: "The What?"

Sis: "Well I read an account of a football game in the paper that said that a player was hurt in the scrimmage."

Sodie to Freshman Baker: "Say Baker, I'm around collecting bath house fees for the first six weeks."

Baker: "I guess I don't owe you anything, I haven't used the bath house yet."

On Exam—"Place not thy paper under a bushel, but let it shine out that others may see thy good work and profit thereby."

What Next?—Gene Scott: "Ducky, I've lost my invisible hair pins, have you seen them?"

"IDOL" STUDENTS

SONNET ON EXAMS.

When I consider how my wit is spent,
 Ere half the days of this dark week and wide,
 And that same ignorance which is hard to hide
 Lodged in me hopeless, tho my mind more bent
 To fool therewith my teachers, and present
 A good account, lest they in turn should chede,
 Do profs exact hard labor, wit denied?
 I fondly ask: But patience, to prevent
 That murmur, soon replies: profs do not heed
 Either our likes or our dislikes: who best
 Do the hard work, they best "get by": their state
 Is Kingly; dozens at their canning speed
 And post o'er town and country without rest:—
 They also flunk who only stand and wait.

GLEE CLUB RECOLLECTIONS

At Eureka: What was the joke about, "And the lady principal says, Now Earl!"
 At Harrison: What about the snowball party Paul C. attended?
 At Searcy: All the boys rush to the general delivery window.
 At Helena: Who was Austin T. with most of the time?
 Who knows anything about a green face?
 Does any member know anything about the P. O. Cafe?
 At Marianna: Why did certain members arrive on a later train?
 At Jonesboro: How did Mr. Tovey get into his waistcoat?
 At Little Rock: The only place where Mike lost a drink because he did not get a letter.

Clara: I want to forget what I told you. I didn't mean what I said about not taking back my refusal to change my mind. I've been thinking it over and I've decided that I was mistaken in the first place.

Paul: Do you really mean that, Clara?

"I'M FOR YOU—"

COURSES TO BE OFFERED THIS SPRING

Campustury.—Special course offered for pleasure seekers who have no classes and are affected with spring fever. Guaranteed to satisfy—if you get the right girl.

This course is to Professor Beloit Taylor who has tamed Vampires from Maine to Oregon and has gambled and gamboled on the best turfs in or near the University.

Comes five afternoons a week, after your last class.

Porchswingology.—Beginners class starts immediately. This course embraces a study of the fine arts in porchswings, just when to talk and what to talk about—also "embraces" a few other "things."

This course is given by Paul Cochran and Prof. S., a gentleman who has made a study of porchswings and who has in former days sat in every porchswing of Fayetteville. He knows softer sex from A to Z (also from Eureka to Helena.)

Loafology.—A course destined for those who simply don't have time to study. This course was provided for those who wish to major in the art of professional bull slinging. There has been a sad lack of this in school. We are all becoming machines and BOOK WORMS—curses!!!

Prof. Eddie Allsop has kindly consented to instruct this class. He has visited the University and City Hospitals and has seen the many lives torn down by hard study.

Eng. 77b. Love Lyrics.—The latest phrases and rhymes concocted in this course. A course especially for those who are deficient in the art of saying the right words at the right time, arranged for those delinquents who lost out in their last attempt. All "Fall guys" admitted.

Prof. Earl Mathews, B. S., instructor. Mr. Mathews has been in every girl's school in the state. He knows what they like. See Him!!!

Notice—Kelly Clardy has entered, RUSH—seats already almost all taken.

Art. 44b. "The Newest Lines."—This course is provided for all those in love who have put out the same old stall for the last fifty times. Learn a new line. Have a line for every girl, try a new one every night.

Prof. Bert Faisson offers this course. His record is enough to convince all of his ability.

Hours: Whenever he is not putting out one himself.

HORRIBLE

She—Because it is nothing but hugging set to music.
He—What don't you like about that?
She—The music.

Strange Phenomena—The faculty gave the Pi Kappa Alphas permission to go on a possum hunt if they would promise to get back by 8 o'clock.

Professor Lusky: I—ve tri—ed to fool peop—le a—bout my a—age, but th—ey fou—nd me ou—out when I to—old a jo—ke. It was fif—ty years o—ld.

The Freshmen blame the old girls when they lose their keys, dresses, etc.
Adele Ramsey: If those Freshmen lost their step they'd accuse the old girls of taking it.

The following was sent to the editor sealed and marked personal, headed "Just the Right Thing":

Visitor at the Agri. Dept.: I want to see something fresh and green.

Dean Nelson: Yessir; (to the messenger), send for Cleveland Cabler.

Prof. Brown: What is the modulus of stretch, Mr. Blythe?

Blythe: I can't answer that, it takes too much brains.

SAD BUT TRUE

Miss Midsel strolling into geology: We need some fresh air in here.

PHILOSOPHY

Dr. Drake: Miss Crockett, why are railroads mostly built in valleys?

Elizabeth Crockett: Because the valleys are less mountainous.

Ask Jim Amis who calls him "Papa, sweet papa."

STRANGE THINGS

Dr. Guy buys several articles from Price Clo. Co. Very forgetfully he has them sent out to Price's residence.

Moody: I am looking for the Prescott daily. It is a tri-daily.

Cravens: Why a tri-daily?

Moody: I try three times a day to find any news in it.

Special to the Razorback, revealed by the hello girl.

(Name withheld): Have you a date for three weeks from tomorrow night? This is _____.

Frances Yates: Why, I do not know you.

You don't know me? I brought you over to the house night before last for dinner.

An egg is like a man because the true nature of either remains unknown till it is broke.

DISAPPOINTMENT

He: I love the very ground that _____ is coming to you.

Small boy to another small boy: I will hit you and knock you to a place that begins with an "H" and ends with an "L."

Professor: Johnny, you should not talk that way.

Johnny: I only meant "hospital."

He: What time have you?

She: (Looking at her ankle watch) Half past three.

He: Why down there?

She: To watch my step.

He: That is a funny place to have hands.

Kidnapping A Freshman

U

Walking up the campus: Is he a "rounder?"

No, but his arms are.

Sgt. Barr in Military Science: What is route step?

Cravens: That means to take another route.

Moody thinks animals are human because they have "humane" officers.

Prof. Waterman: Mr. Cabler, I refuse to argue with you, you have proved yourself out of my perview.

Leach to a young lady: What did you say your age was?

Young lady: I didn't say, but I've just reached twenty-one.

Leach, consolingly: Is that possible, what detained you?

A camera man, working for the educational department of a film company, met an old farmer coming out of a house in the town where he was working and explained his presence in these words: I have just been taking some moving pictures of life out on your farm.

Farmer: Did you catch any of my laborers in motion?

Camera man: Sure I did.

The farmer shook his head reflectively, and said: Science is a wonderful thing.

Prof. Murphy: Mr. Barrett, when was Caesar born?

Freshman Barrett: I don't know sir.

Prof. Murphy: Why, the date of his birth is given there in the parenthesis immediately following his name. Didn't you see it?

Barrett: I thought that was his gun number.

A Sunday school teacher was explaining a Bible story as follows, "Lot was told to take his wife and daughters and flee. There's Lot, there is his wife, and there are his daughters a little way behind."

"Yes," asserted Lewis Pierce, "But where is the flea?"

One Freshman to another: This school certainly takes an interest in a fellow, doesn't it?

How do you mean?

Why, I heard an upper classman say that they would be very glad to hear of the death of any of the alumni.

"ON BEING PRESIDENT"

Upper Classman: This being Freshman president isn't all it is supposed to be, is it Hawkins?

Hawkins: It felt like the Irishman, who after being ridden on a rail, said that if it wasn't for the honor of the thing he had rather walk.

The following little poem was found in a room in Gray Hall:

The frost is on the radiator,
I hear the clarion of the cock,
I'm still a bonin' history,
It's nearly one o'clock.

If the history of the past would be stale and uninteresting without its mighty Washingtons, Caesars and Napoleons, what would be the interest in the archives of Hill Hall without its famous characters of Old Faithful Zip and Sir Admiral Gravy?

OH, FUDGE!

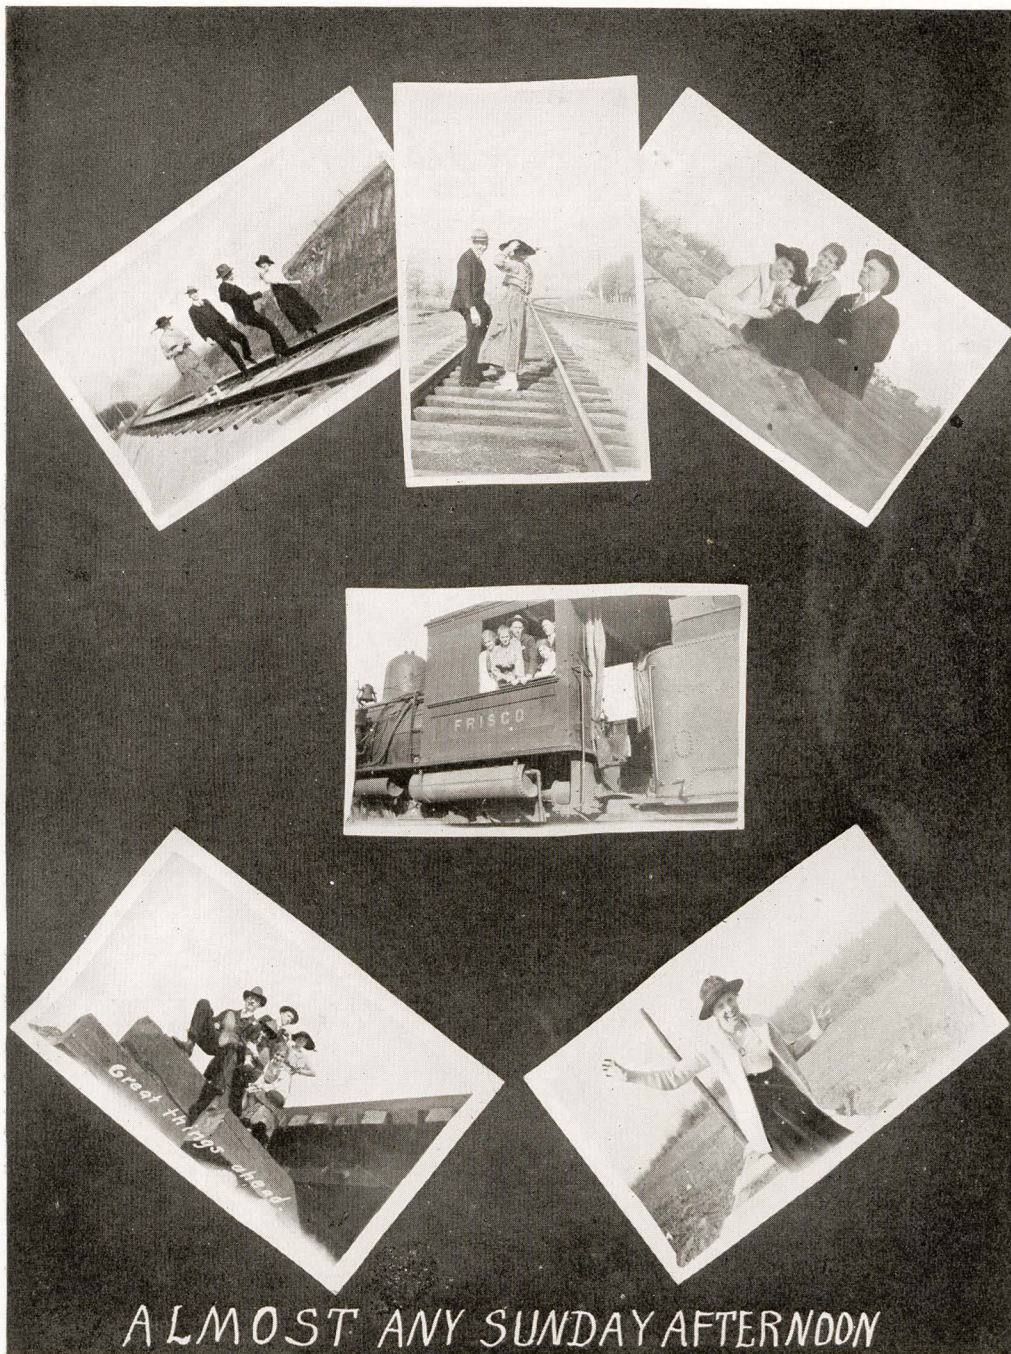

Kenneth Markle awaking about two bells last night, found his old lady, Vance Sailor, writing and breathing sighs. Curiosity caused the Freshman to peep, and he read at the top of the page, "Ode to Her Eyes."

NOTICE

Bill Turner wore his Pink Shirt Dec. 8, 1916.

Please take note when he wears it again.

Lila May Maddox, in a wagon going on a picnic, looking at the brake on the rear wheel: Is that to keep the mud off the wheel?

1917

The Prodigal Son was the subject of the Sunday school lesson, and the teacher was dwelling on the character of the elder brother.

"But amidst all the rejoicing," said the teacher, "there was one to whom the preparation of the feast brought no joy, to whom the Prodigal's return gave no happiness, only bitterness; one who did not approve of the feast and had no wish to attend it. Now, who can tell me who this was?"

Silence for several minutes; then Brooks Hays said in a sympathetic voice, "I suppose it was the fatted calf."

Cabler went into the Library and looked in the index for Lamb's Essays. He could not find it, so he asked Gladys Hollabaugh where it was.

Gladys: Did you look under "Lamb."

Cabler: Yeh, I looked under Lamb and "Sheep," too, and couldn't find the thing.

IMPOSSIBLE!

Major Armistead was lecturing to the Officers' Training class.

"In the field," he said, "it is incumbent upon any officer to make himself look as much like a man as possible."

"I am leaning o'er the rail,
I am getting mighty pale.
Am I looking for a sail?"

No, I'm not.

I'm my father's only daughter,
Casting bread upon the water,
In a way I hadn't oughter,
That's what."

—Clara McLaughlin.

"What were you and Vance talking about in the parlor?" asked Madge Lewis' mother.

"O, we were discussing our kith and kin," replied Madge.

"Yeth, you wath," interposed Madge's little sister. "Mr. Failer asked you for a kith and you said 'you kin.'"

WHAT HAPPENS "ON THE HILL"

One of the little Fullbright twins: Mamma, can Lucille see in the dark?

Mamma: No, honey; why?

The Little Fullbright: Cause, last night out in the hall in the dark, I heard Lucille tell June that he needed a shave.

Sgt. Barr (5 ft. 4 in.) to Private Belknap (6 ft. 6 in.): "Head up there, Belknap! Head up! There, that's better. Don't let me see your head down again."

"Am I to stay always like this?" asked Belknap, staring away above sergeant's head.

"You are."

"Then, I'll tell you goodbye, Sergeant, for I'll never see you again."

Dr. Jewell asked Margaret Brewster what Dante wrote.

Margaret: Paradise Lost and Paradise Regained.

Prof. Curtis: Mr. Suggs what is a Eucharist?

Suggs: One who plays Euchre.

CRUMBLES FOR BREAKFAST

Morgan: I don't like these shavings for breakfast.

Best: It beats the board we used to get last year.

To meet soaring cost of living, biplane food.

(Name withheld) (At McIlroy Dry Goods Co.): Do you guarantee these night gowns?

Clerk: Yes, you can't wear them out.

Major Armistead: What has been the dominant character of America's military program up to the last three years?

Jelks (who was out the night before): Not prepared, sir.

Major Armistead: Correct.

Things we would like to know:
 1. How the Katskill mountains?
 2. Is Mississippi a widow? If not, where is Mississippi?
 3. Why did Turkey and Greece get into the big European fry?

A loafing mechanic upon being asked why he was not working answered: I had a job at the Ford factory but I lost it because I dropped a monkey wrench and got twenty-five cars behind.

In History 5A.
 Prof. Murphy: "Who was the founder of the Franciscan Friars, Mr. Davidson?"
 Davidson: "Fransancisco, I think."

BEFORE THE BONE DRY LAW

Prof. Murphy: Mr. Trimble, what kinds of food would you find on the mediaeval table?
 Jim Trimble: Wine and that's all I can remember.

A mouse ran out of a gas stove while mother and son were in the kitchen.
 Mother: Shoot that mouse, son.
 Son: No, I can't, he is out of "range."

McKnight: Say, Mr. Curtis, in regard to the examination preparation in English, just what would you advise?
 Prof. Curtis: "Unlimited industry."
 Mr. McKnight: Unlimited industry.

"Come, gentle muse, who in ancient days inspired the bard in his songs of praise. Bring not to my mind vast words of pomp, but ordinary one for Latin Comp."
 —F. E. Hurst.

Dec. 1, Friday, day after Thanksgiving: Open season on birds, no vacation for students, President Futrall out of town, Vice-President Gladson out of town, Dean Droke out of town, Dean Jewell out of town, Dean Nelson missing, night cop on the job. All? students present, and everything running smoothly.

COMPLIMENTING HIMSELF

Philbrick: Any man who is not patriotic enough to serve his country ought to be kicked out of the country by a jack ass—and I'd like to be the first one to do it.

The new dimes will buy about as much as the old nickels used to.

They may have painless surgery, but they have not yet discovered the "costless brand."

Women are wearing more and costly clothing, according to a department report—but not any one time.

ANOTHER ADMISSION

Prof. Ripley: Now, Mr. Cooper, what is a vacuum?

R. A. Cooper: Why er-er, well, it's in my head, professor, but I can't seem to think of it just now.

When the train stopped at an inland Arkansas station the Northern tourist sauntered out on the platform. Beneath a tall pine stood a lean animal with scraggy bristles. The tourist was interested.

"What do you call that?" he inquired of a lanky "cracker."

"Razorback hawg."

"Well, what is he doing rubbing against that tree?"

"He's stropping himself, mister; jest stropping himself."

Prof. Straus: What is the meaning of Orcus?
 Suggs: Latin comp.

HERBERT FAISST'S LETTER TO HIS COUSIN IN GERMANY, HANS SCHMITSSLEASE

States of United,
September the Two.

Mein Dear Cousin Hans:

I now take my pen and ink in hand and write you mit a lead pencil. Ve do not lif vere ve used to lif. Ve lif vere ve have moved. I hate to sate it, but your dear old aunt vot you luffed so vell is dead. She died of new monia on newyears day in new orleans at fifteen minutes in front of five. Some people think she had population on der heart. The doctor gave up all hope ven she died. Her breath all leaked out. She leaves a family of two boys and two cows. They found $10,000 sewed in her bustle. It was an awful lot of money to leave behind.

Old Mrs. Offenblock is very sick. She is just at death's door, and der doctor thinks he can pull her thru. She had such a nice little boy. He is just like a human beast. I took him to der hospital to see de sick people, and ve had a lovely time.

Your Brudder Gus took our dog Fido down to der saw mill yesterday to have a fight. He run'd up against one of der big circular saws—he only lasted one round.

All the Crossenbackz family haf the mups and are having a swell time. I am sending your black overcoat by express. In order to safe charges, I cut off der buttons. You will find dem in de inside pocket.

Mother is making sausage and dere neighbors is looking out for dere dogs. Your uncle said it, if you dont pay him dot 40 cents vot you owe him, he will cut off your head and throw it in your face.

I just gradulated from dere college and I took electrocution and physical torture. I learned to be a stingy grafter, too. I got a chob down at the livery stable as a stingy grafter taking down hay for the horses.

Louis Kratz was sick. The doctor told him to take something, so he vant der street down and met Ikey Cohen and took his watch. Ikey had him arrested and got a lawyer. De lawyer got the case but Ikey got the works.

SHEET TWICE

We hab about thirty chickens and a pug dog. Dere chickens are laying about six eggs a day and der dog is laying—behind der stove. Just heard dey performed an operation on Mrs. Offenblock between der dining room and der conservatory, but she died between 8 o'clock. Dere is people dying around here vot neffer died before.

Oh, how I wish ve vere closer apart. I am awful lonesome since ve are separated together. Your brudder Frank is getting along fine with the small pox, and hopes he find you der same. Hoping you will written sooner as I did I remain here.

Your Cousin, HERBERT FAISST.

P. X. If you don't get dis letter let me know and I vill written you anoder vun.

Two times P. X. Have just received dat $5.00 I owe you but closed up dere letter and can't get it in.

ODDS AND ENDS.

What race is born to blush unseen?
The negro.

When are stockings like dead men?
When their soles are departed; when they are in holes; when they are past heeling; when they are no longer on their first legs.

Gets her beauty sleep in class—Verda Mathews.

His devious way is lined like the Mississippi—by bluffs—Twat Clark.

Why are some women like facts?
They are stubborn things.

LAPISARILY SPEAKING

"Her lips are like coral; her teeth like pearls; her ears like shells."

"Yeah, all attached to the solid rock."

It is very flattering to woman to be told that she appeals to a man's nobler self; but somehow she can't help wondering what other woman is appealing to the other 99 per cent of him—Central Collegian.

Prof. Waterman: "Mr. Mathews what are the weapons used by the capitalists."

Earl: "The blackmail and the knock out."

Prof. Droke, looking at Austin Taylor's loud hose: "Be quiet there, be quiet."

Inquirer over the telephone: "Where is Prof. Drake?"

Answer: "He is in the Museum."

A young man of wealth, cultivation and refinement wishes to occupy his leisure time during the summer corresponding with a limited number of young ladies between the ages of sixteen and twenty. Object is mutual improvement and perhaps matrimony. Apply to Tubie Mullins.

Ford: "Your room-mate says he is a practical socialist."

Sailor: "He must be, he wears my shirts; smokes my tobacco and writes to my girl."

"What kind of a girl had you last night?"

"Oh, she was a lemon."

"Did you squeeze her?"

"Yes and that made her sour."

Student: "This steak is like a day in June, very rare."

Landlady: "And your board bill is like March weather—always unsettled."

A. Taylor, while on the train going from Harrison to Helena, saw a very beautiful maiden looking somewhat inviting. "Pardon me" said Austin, "Is this seat engaged?"

"No" was the calm reply, "But I am."

"Render to them, therefore, all their dues."—Class Treasurer.

Why couldn't Adam and Eve drive an auto?
Because they lacked attire.

What is the difference between Abraham and Opium?
Opium is the juice of the poppy and Abraham is the Poppy of the Jews.

Dr. Hancock (in Greek I class) correcting Coleman's translation said,
"You shouldn't say that Cyrus killed a she bear, 'She' isn't accusative, say that Cyrus killed a 'her' bear."

Ozan Robbins: Where is Carnegie Hall?

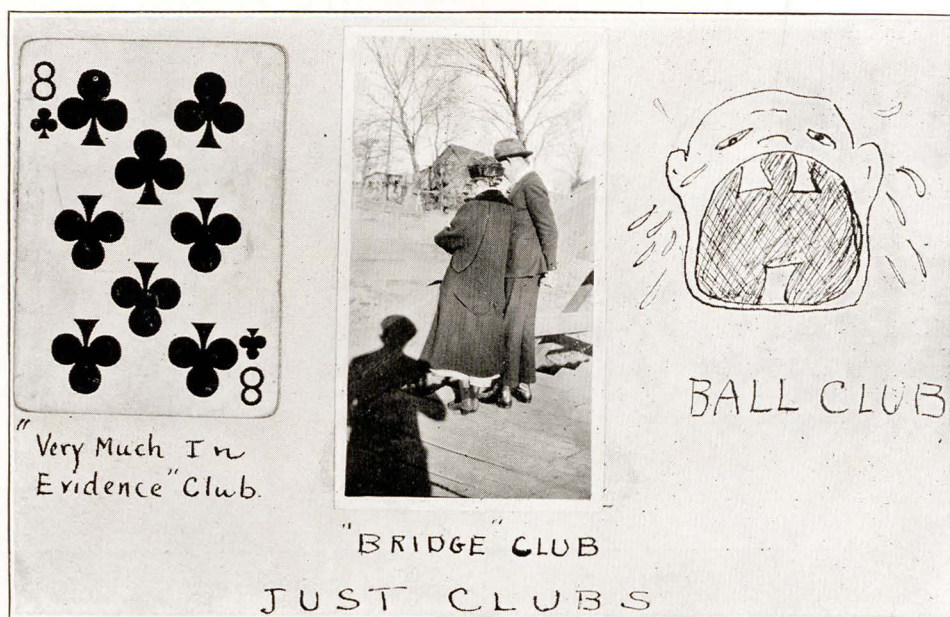

Bess Hodges (in cooking class): Miss Peck, does beef suet come prepared?
At the Palace Drug Store.—Margaret Calahan to waiter: Just what are your "All cash sodas."

Dr. Guy: Why do Ivory and Fairy soaps float?
Student: Because they're impregnated with air.
Virginia Neely: Well what's the advantage of having the soap to float?
Dr. Guy: So you can find it when you want it.

Sis Ramsy: Oh look at that little colt, it walks just like Jew Greaves.

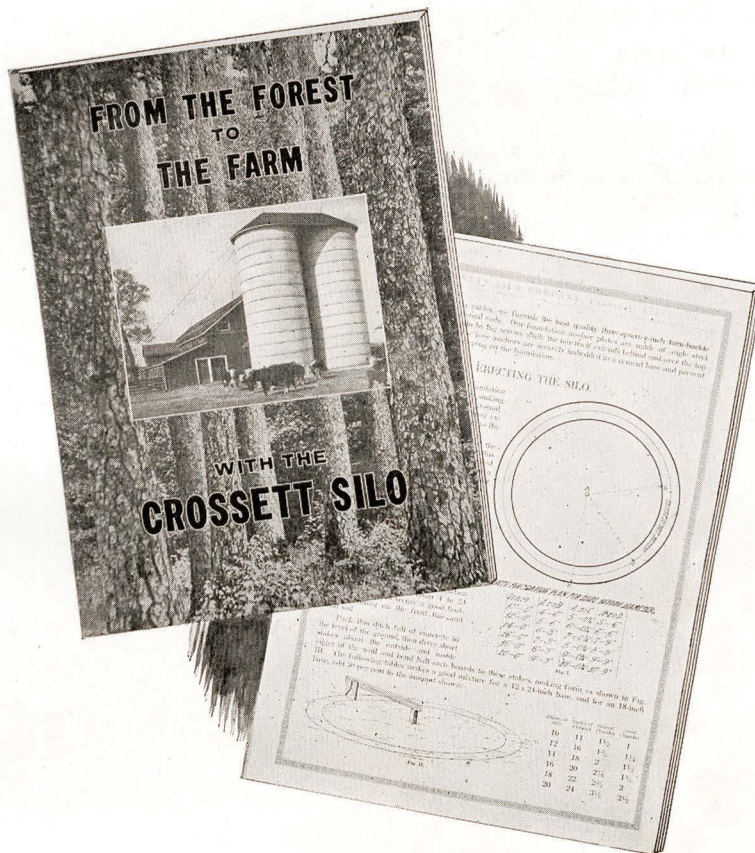

Ozan Robbins: When can I come up and see Mildred Hornibrook's room?

One advantage in Clyde Bossemeyer having a long neck—he can enjoy his drinks longer.

FINIS

When at last the Razorback's finished
And the last of the printing is dried;
When the last of the rhymes are written,
And the last of our sighs have been sighed;
We shall rest, and faith we shall need it,
We shall sleep for a night or two,
And tho' in our dreams we'll be working,
The work will be easy to do.

For even in toil we'll be happy,
We shall sit in an easy chair;
We shall fill in a handsome big dummy,
As easy as breathing the air.
We shall have real leather for cover,
In shades that just answer our call;
We shall write a thousand acrostics,
And never be tired at all.

And never a disagreement,
And never a cut will be lost;
And no one will hold back his money,
And no one object to the cost.
But hundreds will buy the Razorback,
And say it's fine as can be,
And so in our dreams we'll be seeing,
All things as we'd like them to be.
